MAKING THE NDIS
THE BEST IT CAN BE

THE ASU IS THE DISABILITY SECTOR UNION – the union for support workers, team leaders, coordinators, social educators, case managers, advocates and managers in non-government disability services.

WHY YOU SHOULD JOIN THE ASU AND BE PART OF REAL CHANGE.

JOIN TO BE PREPARED

- Know what the NDIS really means for you. ASU members have access to our regular disability sector news about the NDIS and how it will affect frontline workers.
- Access special member-only resources to know your rights and entitlements under the NDIS.
- Access the confidential ASU member advice line if you have any questions about your work, your pay, your rights and conditions.
- Join with your colleagues and have a strong collective voice in your workplace. As ASU members you can meet, elect union delegates to represent you, talk about what matters to you and decide together how to respond to any issues at work.
- Automatically receive two types of insurance when you join at no extra cost. Free journey insurance, in case you are injured on the way to or from work, and free professional indemnity insurance, if something goes wrong at work.

JOIN TO BE PART OF THE CHANGE

- You'll be joining a union with a record of success. Did you know ASU members fought for and won Equal Pay in 2012? This means regular pay increases-twice a year- until 2020! Imagine what we could achieve next if even more people decided to join the ASU!
- ASU members work together from across services to ensure that good wages and conditions are protected under the NDIS. Our voice is stronger the more people decide to join and be part of the change!
- Become part of the ASU Disability Delegates Network – hundreds of members across the state have been elected by other members at their service to take part in the network. It plans campaigns, shares information, and keeps everyone up to date with the changes in our sector.
- Free membership of the new Australian College of Community and Disability Practitioners. This is a new professional organisation, established by ASU members, to ensure workers get to have a say in what the standards should be for our work in the disability sector.

ASU membership is your way to be ready for the NDIS and part of the change. It's your union, your work and your voice. Join today – membership fees are tax deductible!
